Celebrating Women's History Month with National Coalition of 100 Black Women, Inc.'s National President

Virginia W. Harris talks to WomLEAD magazine about her dedication to serving the public.

ATLANTA, GA, March 9, 2021 – WomLEAD magazine, a publication that targets women who are in business and leadership, talked to National Coalition of 100 Black Women, Incorporated (NCBW) National President, Virginia W. Harris.

President Harris was one of 25 remarkable women recognized for their outstanding accomplishments in celebration of Women's History Month. The NCBW leader had an opportunity to share her professional story and the impact she and her organization's more than 3,500 members have made supporting black women and girls around the country.

This special recognition for President Harris comes as the organization continues to see that more work needs to be done when it comes to women's rights and gender equality. Speaking out against anti-voter rights bills that are making their way through state legislatures across the country has been a top priority.

"There is no shortage of ways we can give-back and make a difference. Leading an organization made up of African American women who are history-makers in their own right is truly an honor. The Vision of the National Coalition of 100 Black Women, Inc. is to see black women and girls live in a world where socio-economic inequity does not exist. It excites me when I see our vision is moving closer to reality," said Virginia W. Harris, NCBW National President.

###

The National Coalition of 100 Black Women, Incorporated is a 38-year-old advocacy organization whose vision is that black women and girls will live in a world where socio-economic inequity does not exist. Thus, we advocate on behalf of black women and girls to promote leadership development and gender equity in the areas of health, education and economic empowerment. As a voice for millions of black women and girls in the United States, the Coalition believes in inclusion, respect, racial and social justice, integrity, accountability and collaboration.
